Name the 2 new family units at Stowe's Green Mountain Inn and win a family trip!

Stowe, VT -Stowe's Green Mountain Inn recently announced they are adding two new 1800 square foot, family-style apartments to further accommodate the rise in family tourism. In keeping with tradition, the Inn plans to name the units to reflect the surrounding history. They have created a contest to get the community involved in naming them. The winner receives a two-nights stay for four people at the Inn during a non-holiday period.

"Finding just the right name can be difficult sometimes," said Patti Clark, Innkeeper at the Green Mountain Inn. "With both the Green Mountain Inn and the WilloughVale Inn our sister property, we have taken great care to name the buildings, cottages, suites and apartments to reflect the history that surrounds each property," she said. For example, last year the WilloughVale Inn added 4 new lake view cottages that were carefully named to encompass the rich history of the lake Willoughby area. One of them is named Peregrine, in honor of the Peregrine Falcon that was on the endangered species list. In 1975 they were successfully reestablished to the eastern United States and reoccupied the cliffs of Mount Pisgah.

The naming contest runs from March 14 to April 12, 2008. Proposed names should incorporate a historic theme around Stowe or Vermont. The winning names will be picked by a committee at the Green Mountain Inn and are subject to the Green Mountain Inn's discretion. There will only be one winner. If two different people submit proposed names that are chosen the winner will be chosen randomly out of a hat. The winners will be invited to dine at The Whip during the naming ceremony on a date to be determined by the Green Mountain Inn.

Participants should send proposed names to the Green Mountain Inn, 18 Main Street, Stowe, Vermont 05602 attn: marketing department or via email at info@gminn.com. And be sure to include name, address, phone number and email address.

About the Green Mountain Inn
